HOUSE DIVIDES

95-91 OVER B. C.

RAILWAY PLEA

Progressives Vote Solidly Against Extension of Time—Affirmative Wins.

Ottawa, April 26.—Shortly after resumption of business, following dinner recess last night, the house divided on an almost even vote, the division being, on a private bill, struck across a party line, members of the government even dividing among themselves.

A bill was under consideration to grant the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway Company an extension of time, in which to construct its line, commencement to take place within two years and completion within five years.

In the railway committee a few days ago, A. W. Neill, independent Comox-Alberni, objected to the extension. He moved to have the line commenced within one year and finished within three. His motion was defeated. In the house tonight, he renewed his motion, and again was defeated, but by a vote of only 55 to 51, one of the narrowest divisions in recent years. The progressives were the only party to vote solidly. They supported Mr. Neill. Of Conservatives W. F. McLean, of South York, was the only one to give any support.

At 8 p.m. Neill presented his motion in the form of an amendment to refer Hon. S. F. Tolmie's bill back to the railway committee. On his motion being defeated, the house prepared to consider the bill in committee of the whole. But the hour for private bills was up, and the measure went over till another day.

REPUBLICAN CAUSE HURT BY REIGN OF IRISH TERROR

Thinking Irishmen Revolting Against Continued Violence and Murder.

Dublin, April 26.—"Once again in Ireland violence has overreached itself. The cause of the Republican extremists has received a shattering blow by the murder of General Adamson in Athlone."

In these words a man who has been prominent in the Sinn Féin organization since its foundation, but who, for obvious reasons, is unwilling to have his name published, summed up the situation in Ireland today. Not even the wrecking of the Freeman's Journal building by armed ruffians, has created such a stir among the quiet but powerful element of thinking Irishmen who, while bitterly opposed to British rule, yet see in adoption of the new charter the end of bloodshed and disturbances which have prevailed almost continuously since the Easter rebellion.

MURDERERS SURRENDER General McKewen, commanding the district in which Athlone is situated, hurried troops to the city and surrounded the Royal hotel, where the mutinous troops are located. The men in the building managed to get out, but disclaimed any knowledge of the murder.

Edward Duffy, chief of staff of the provisional government, in a public statement today, declared that loyal troops who were standing by the provisional government were reaching the limit of their patience. He hints at reprisals, and is doubtful if the authorities can hold the men from vengeance much longer. "The barracks in Dublin are nightly attacked by rifles and machine guns," says Duffy, "forries with supplies, ambushed, stores fired, men murdered in execution of their duty, railway lines cut and wholesale arrests and kidnapping without charges against the victims are common occurrences."

LABOR ATTENDS MEET Dublin, April 26.—When the Irish peace conference was resumed this morning three Labor delegates were in attendance in addition to the Free States, Republicans and mediators, who have attended the previous sessions. The Labor delegates were Alderman O'Brien, Thomas Johnson and Cathal O'Shaunessy. Their presence was taken as a sign that definite peace proposals would be submitted.

Michael Collins and Arthur Griffith represented the Provisional Free State government, and Eamonn De Valera and Cathal Brugha (Charles Burgess), the Republicans. The other present were: Lord Mayor O'Neill, of Dublin, and Archbishop Byrne, the sponsors of the conference, and Stephen O'Mara, Mayor of Limerick.

POWER PLANT AT MINE IS BURNED

Fire Believed to be Incendiary; Drumheller Asking Protection.

Calgary, April 27.—Loss approximating $225,000 was reported at Drumheller when fire tonight destroyed the power plant of the Drumheller Land company and the power plant and tipple of the Callie mine. The tipple was dynamited and the fire checked when within about 100 feet of a cache containing 100 tons of high explosives.

W. M. Walker, manager of the Callie mine, said tonight over the phone that several days ago he had been threatened and that he had been told that his mine "would be blown up."

He says he believes the fire was of incendiary origin. He has applied to the attorney-general for protection.

HE GOT UP

A guest at a country hotel gave instructions one night that he wished to be called early. The next morning he was disturbed by a loud tattoo upon the door.

"Well?" he demanded sharply. "I've got a message for you, sir." "Yawning until he strained his face, the guest jumped out of bed and unlocked the door. The page boy handed him an envelope and then went away quickly.

The guest opened the envelope and took out a slip of paper bearing the words, "It's time to get up."

ANNUAL FORAGE CROPS

(Experimental Farms Note)

"Free range" is a relic of the early days in Western live stock raising, and with the high price of farm land, and the even higher taxes, "wild range" pasture and hay lands are almost unknown. During the last three or four dry years the majority of wild land areas have produced barely enough hay or pasture to pay the taxes; let alone help to pay for the land or pay return on the investment. While this has been the case, the number of horses, cattle and sheep that must be fed have been steadily increasing. For both reasons farmers are becoming interested in cultivated forage crops.

In the drier areas of the West it is doubtful if under dry farming methods the precipitation is sufficient to produce profitable permanent hay or pasture crops. It is extremely difficult to secure a "catch" of clover or grasses, and even if a stand of these cultivated grasses is secured, one, or at most two, crops will exhaust the moisture in the soil, and the succeeding crops will be failures. During dry years these statements apply to all but the northern districts of the prairie provinces.

Under dry conditions annual forage crops have given much better returns for both summer pasture and winter feed. One of the best pasture crops has been produced from sowing two bushels of oats and one bushel of winter rye per acre. If seeded early the oats will be six inches high, and ready to pasture, long before any grass pastures are ready. The oats will provide good spring and summer pasture, and the fall rye will come on later and provide good late pasture until freeze up. This pasture crop is not injured by spring and fall frosts, and if seeded properly it will stand up to a considerable drought, much more than will grass pastures. The fall rye will provide the earliest pasture for the following spring; and if not closely pastured in fall and spring will produce a crop which may be used for hay, silage, or grain. Another good pasture mixture is oats and peas, but the peas are expensive and difficult to secure, and if the season is dry give very poor returns. The standard annual forage crop of the West, for both hay and green feed is oats. For this purpose Barre and the best variety, as the stems are fine and leafy if cut early for hay, and if cut later for green feed the straw is fine and also the grain, if cut a little late, is well retained in the head. From 2 1/2 to 3 bushels per acre should be sown, depending mainly on the amount of moisture in the soil. Both fall and spring sowings should be made, green, but the hay is coarser, more difficult to cure than oat hay and not so palatable.

During the last few years many more silos have been built, and the proven success and low cost of construction of both the pit and trench silo, ensilage crops will be much more in demand. Almost any crop from Russian thistles to corn may be converted into good ensilage. The most essential are that the crop fairly well matured, but not ripe, and that it be cut and thoroughly tramped into the silo so as to prevent access of air. The best silo crops are oats and sunflowers. Corn is probably the best if it can be grown to the dough stage of the ears, but in almost all parts of the central and northern districts of the Prairie Provinces this is rarely possible.

Experiments have been made at the Experimental Station with many other annual forage crops. The most important have been vetches, the millets, and the much advertised Sudan grass. Vetches require much more moisture than the usually reliable millets and Sudan grass require a warm moist season. They make slow growth during our cool early summer weather, the young plants are very easily killed by June frosts, and the first frost stops all growth. Millets may be worthy of a trial, but it is a waste of money to try Sudan grass.

M.D. OF ARTHUR

A meeting of the Council of the M.D. of Arthur, No. 340, was held in Innisfail on April 22, with Reeve J. H. McArthur, Councilors J. D. Quin, T. H. Farrel, Geo. Gales, and C. Moffat present.

GRASSHOPPER CONTROL

ORGANIZATION NECESSARY TO PREPARE FOR THE PESTS

Under the Pest Act and the resolution of the Municipal Act the Government has made it compulsory to treat all land infested with grasshoppers this season. The province is divided into about twenty-five districts with a representative in each district. The representative is responsible for the organization of the district and has supervision of the work of control throughout the season. The municipalities are then responsible for the application of poisoned bait and the treatment of the occupied lands that show infestation. It is important that the municipalities be organized for grasshopper control at an early date so that a mixing station may be placed and a supply of the bait ingredients be obtained before the season opens. The Government is paying half the cost of the materials and also the transportation charges to the mixing station. Each councillor will be in charge of his own district and should have men acting as scouts for locating breeding grounds. School children will help very considerably in this work and also locating the young grasshoppers when they appear.

The bait may be mixed by hand in a method similar to the preparation of concrete, but this has been found to be an expensive and not very satisfactory method. Special machines have been designed for the work and can be procured at a reasonable cost. In order to avoid misuse of the ingredients in the bait, it is to be distributed only after receipt, and then on the receipt of a written statement to the farmer as to the location and extent of the area to be treated.

Economy is advised in all operations in connection with grasshopper control. Twenty-five pounds is sufficient to poison half a mile of road and a rod wide. As the grasshoppers breed in roadsides and around sloughs the strip method of applying the bait is the most satisfactory and should be used over a wide area.

Farmers' meetings will be held in the district in the near future for purposes of organization and discussion of the best means to combat the pests. Mr. F. N. Rossmore is in charge of the Red Deer district and any information in regard to the locating of breeding grounds, and later of infested areas should be sent to him at Red Deer.

CONDOR U.F.A.

A regular meeting of the Condor U.F.A. Local was held on April 8. Correspondence was read and dealt with. Moved by A. L. Macdonald and G. Glenhill that we send in a petition to the Local, and also circulate a public letter to a daily train service on this line, and inform other locals of our action. Carried.

Our President, Mr. Ralph Patterson, gave in his resignation and told us he was going to Red Deer to be manager of the Central Alberta Live Stock Shipping Association at Red Deer. Mr. Patterson explained the system and the reduced cost of shipping stock to Calgary.

Moved by Robt. H. Blair and Mrs. Patterson that we accept with great regret Mr. Patterson's resignation. Carried.

Mr. Scott Hattie made a short speech on the misfortune that has come to our Local in the losing of its staunchest supporter.

The President called for nominations for the new President, and appointed W. Warden and Fred Hart as scrutineers. There were four nominations for President, Mr. Scott Hattie getting the majority of votes. The new President took the chair.

Mr. Roy Rice thanked the local for the assistance it had rendered his wife, and himself during their trouble. Mr. D. W. Blair has "d" in his resignation as Convener of the Entertainment committee, as he had not time to do the work as it should be done.

Moved by R. Patterson and Neil Macdonald that Mr. Blair's resignation be accepted, and that a hearty vote of thanks be tendered to Mr. Blair for his excellent service in the past. Carried.

The meeting adjourned until Saturday, April 22.

Mr. Clement and Mr. Meeres spoke on Government railways, for a short time. Moved by J. O. Shaw and A. L. Macdonald that Mr. Howitt send his bill to the Secretary. Carried.

FEEDING STEERS

DISPOSED OF BY THE UNIVERSITY

Bought for an Average of $3.22 and Sold at an Average of $6.72 Net

Almost the final transaction in which the steers, bought last fall by the University of Alberta for feeding experiments, are interested, have been recorded. They were sold last week at the Edmonton Stock Yards at a splendid price, and their final record will have to be on the dinner table. Some 70 steers were bought last fall at the Edmonton Stock Yards at an average cost of $3.22 and 65 of them sold Tuesday of this week at an average of $6.72 net, the marketing expenses being just 23c a hundred. The steers averaged as they were sold about 1240 pounds.

Fifty-six of them sold at 7 cents, six at 6c and the other three at 5 cents. T. F. Cadzow handled the steers on both transactions; the buying last fall and the selling this week and the buyer was the Swift Canadian company.

The overhead cost of feeding these steers at the university was very small, $100 would readily cover the cost of the steers, and the $17 a head down to $2.50 on the poor lots. The winter was a favorable one in which to feed the steers, there were no extended periods of extremely cold weather and feed was comparatively cheap.

EVERGREEN U.F.A.

The regular meeting of the Evergreen U.F.A. Local No. 617 was held at the Knowledge schoolhouse on April 8 at 2 p.m., Mr. A. Atkinson presiding. The attendance was very fair, and several visitors and prospective members were present. The roll called, the minutes of the previous meeting read and accepted, and the correspondence disposed of and new members enrolled. The President called for subjects for discussion. The question of the local members shipping cream co-operatively was proposed by Mr. J. Burroughs and enthusiastically carried on by all members present. After a lengthy discussion the subject was tabled until the next meeting. Several of the members combined their orders for hard-ware from Winnipeg, thereby making a considerable saving on the individual freight bill. It was moved, seconded and carried that the local hold a special meeting on Saturday, April 15, to further discuss the cream question. Our friends from Condor declared the meeting to be one of the most brisk and businesslike they had ever had the pleasure to attend. The meeting adjourned at 4 p.m. W. M. Alexander, official reporter.

A special meeting of the Evergreen U.F.A. Local No. 617 was held in the Knowledge schoolhouse on April 15, and was called to order by the President at 3 p.m. The usual routine was gone through and the membership roll again examined. The chairman gave an outline of the cream shipping question as discussed at the previous meeting for the benefit of the members who were absent from that meeting. I may say that the members of this Local are getting a good insight into that most important factor, co-operation. They realize that by thorough co-operation there is a great deal to be saved and gained, and they are working together with a will and great energy. There was a good percentage of the members present and the cream shipping question was thoroughly gone into. It was decided that the members should combine to ship their cream collectively to one creamery. One may readily see the advantage of this method over individual shipping. It was also resolved that none other than U.F.A. members' cream would be handled by the creamery. Mr. A. Atkinson and Mr. J. Burroughs, were appointed delegates to go to Edmonton and hold a personal interview with the creamery operators there and make the best terms and arrangements possible. Arrangements were made for hauling the cream direct to the creamery. Collecting points were settled upon and each member in turn will make the round trip of these points, taking up the full cans and returning the empties. In this way the members will save a great deal of time or quite a little expense in one season, as instead of taking his cream to the station individually once or more a week, he will only have to make one trip in probably six weeks or two months under the co-operative method. On the other hand, if he pays the mail-carrier or any other person to take his cream, it costs him around 25 cents per can per round trip. Working on the co-operative principle it will cost him nothing further than taking his can to the collecting point nearest him and taking his turn in hauling. Again, in taking the cream direct to the creamery, the hauling will pay each member, as his turn comes, a direct day's wage, as he will receive the freightage that the creamery would otherwise pay to the railroad.

The cream question being settled, the subject of egg shipping was discussed but nothing definite was decided upon. The meeting adjourned at 5 p.m.

FOREIGNERS IN NEW YORK

There are now more Russians in New York than in Moscow, more Italians than in Naples, and more foreigners of all sorts than the combined population of Chicago, Boston and Detroit. Not only that, but there are more Russians and Italians than there were German and Irish at the periods of the largest numbers of those races. In 1900 there were 790,000 Germans in the city, but in 1910, 748,000, and in 1920 only 525,000. In 1900 there were 264,000 Russians, in 1910, 754,000, and in 1920, 994,000. That is, there are now 200,000 more Russians in New York than there ever were Germans.

ENVYING THE MAN ON TOP

Many men who yearn for success are unwilling to undergo the long period of self-sacrifice and hard work which is necessary to get to the top.

It is natural to look at the successful man with envy, and just as natural to lose sight of the long, steady pull to get to the place of envy.

To close one's eyes and dream of success as a haven of ease and comfort far removed from the cares of the world is so easy.

To get down to hard thinking and working every minute of one's waking hours is not at all the idea most persons have of success.

And if the man who works twelve hours a day spends his leisure hours playing golf or quots or horse hunting or fishing, the hours of work are lost sight of, in the light of his getting time to enjoy himself.

It never occurs to the "envious of success" that the honor and money winner probably began work before they were up and continued work far into the night while they slept.

All that the lazy, wish-lad-and-so-and-so job sort of individual thinks of is the results.

How it came about is the least of his bother, when he can while about never having had the "chance" that Bill had.

INCOME TAX LEVY DRAWS A PENALTY UNLESS PAID NOW

Returns Must Be Made Before May First—Installment Plan Provided.

Irrespective of any excuse what soever, those who ought to make Dominion income tax returns must do so on or before April 30th, so as to avoid the penalty imposed on delinquents. This is the warning, made by C. S. Kilgour in charge of the tax collections in the Mortlake block, Edmonton.

The penalty imposed on all returns made after May 1st will be five per cent, and from this time on, no departure. Not even sickness will be taken as a legitimate excuse.

It is intimated by the income tax collector, however, that since the last day for the receiving of taxes is a Sunday, marked cheques registered in the mails on May 1st will be accepted and no penalty charged. But unmarked cheques are liable to be turned down and the penalty imposed. Saturday afternoon the office will remain open until 6 p.m.

Arrangements are also made whereby a quarter of the tax may be paid now and the balance paid in quarterly instalments at the end of June, August and October, 6 per cent interest being payable under such a plan.

The same scheme is being followed this year as in 1921, that is, the people are being allowed to make up their own returns. So far this year the returns are coming in well, says Mr. Kilgour, who anticipates that within the next few days there will be a big rush to his office by those seeking to avoid the penalty.

Before planting, cut off all extraneous and damaged roots with a sharp knife, making the cut on the under side of the root, as it will callous and form fresh roots, which naturally tend to grow downwards hence the reason for cutting underneath. GET THE HOPPERS OR THEY'LL GET YOU

Effective Measures Must Be Taken To Prevent Them From Devastating Local Crops This Year.

The grasshopper menace is a real problem that must be dealt with by using effective measures. Eggs have been found in the Red Deer district, and the hoppers will surely be here. Fortunately, however, the pest can be very easily and effectively checked if the people are ready to apply the remedy at the proper time.

Mr. Strickland, entomologist at the University of Alberta, addressed a meeting in Red Deer on Thursday evening, and gave a fund of very useful information on the hopper, which has been prevalent in the foothills all along, but only in 1918 and the other dry years that have for years been spread out to the prairie.

There is a red mite that is the natural enemy of the grasshopper, and will probably take 4 or 5 years for the mite to overtake the pests, now that they have broken away from their original habitation.

Mr. Strickland found some eggs at R. A. Van Slyke's farm, while here, and he was checked to find some of the red mites also, so that the natural enemy may get in its work even sooner than was expected. It is estimated that each hopper that hopped over from the foothills in 1918 is responsible for 400,000,000 hoppers in the present year of grace.

The pest has been spreading northward, having reached serious proportions in the south, where as many as 500 eggs to the square foot have been found during the past winter. Some of the people there are doing good work, but up to now the Government is paying half the cost, leaving the municipalities to pay or collect the mites, which have been distributed from recognized mixing stations.

Wet seasons will not kill the hoppers, unless there is rain enough to drown the crops.

There are 25 varieties of hoppers in Alberta. The little ones, which may be hopping now, were hatched last fall, and will do very little damage. Four kinds of hoppers are to be feared, viz, the road-side hopper, the striped hopper and the red-legged hopper.

T. T. Road-side Variety—So-called because they lay their eggs in sod only, and in old pastures or along the sides of the road, where they are found in open areas or along trails, but never all over the prairie. If they are caught shortly after hatching, it is only necessary to cover small areas with the poison.

They never hatch before the middle of May, and will probably be a couple of weeks later this year. The presence of eggs should be looked for; they will be found in clusters at a depth of about half an inch and look like shelled grains of wheat, nearly white in color.

As soon as the hoppers hatch, report to your Municipal Council, and get the bait; you may have 25 this year for every one you had last year.

Poisoned bait is perfect results, most effective and cheap. Burning the grass works sometimes, but may hatch more than it kills. It is done just at the right time, and by removing the long grass shelter may spread them out over a wider area.

For ten days or two weeks after they are hatched, the young hoppers will come back into their natal soil for shelter, and it is not necessary to bait the field that they work in during the day.

Put the bait out in the early morning, as the hoppers are hungry then and feed on it best while it is fresh. Put it where the hoppers are thick, and they will feed on it within twenty minutes of when it is put out. The bait will not be of much value after the first half hour. Broadcast it very thinly, say 25 pounds of the mixture to an acre, or half a mile of fence row. Throw it as far as you can, and mix it up separately. The hoppers will crawl a foot to feed on a flake of the bait and one flake is enough to poison ten hoppers when they are small.

Don't expect results too quickly. A hopper may die within a few minutes of when he is poisoned, but it takes 2 or 3 days for a grasshopper to quit, although he will not do any damage in the interval, not feeling hungry.

A mixture of half bran and half sawdust, with the addition of the arsenic, is a good solution, and is both effective and inexpensive bait, as the salt bait fails to attract when salt is already present in the soil. It is best to use some molasses in the mixture at the first of the season, and make sure of getting them.

Be prepared. That is the main thing. The "red-legged" hoppers lay their eggs only around sloughs in gumbo soil, where the eggs may be removed water early in the season, but they will hatch later, perhaps early in May. Watch for them and get them for they are fond of chipping off your toes.

In ploughing, it is possible to herd the hoppers into smaller areas and poison effectively and easily. There is absolutely no danger to stock from the use of the poisoned bait, nor will it harm poultry unless left in handfeed. Poisoned grass hoppers will not hurt poultry or even small birds.

On motion of S. Pamel and J. C. Oldford, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Strickland for his instructive address. The campaign in this district.

The regular monthly meeting of the W.C.T.U. was held in the Presbyterian Church on Friday, April 28th. Mrs. McVicar presided, opening with devotional exercises, meeting with the business part. Delegates were appointed for coming convention, which will be held this week, May 4th and 5th in the Methodist Church. The delegates are Mrs. McVicar, Mrs. Connell, Mrs. Fyfe, Mrs. McGregor and Mrs. A.H. George.

Arrangements were made for a very helpful paper written by Mrs. J. M. George, of Viking, "Teaching Truth in the Home".

The most difficult task, when viewed from the standpoint of opportunity, becomes inviting, so as to, in the presence of the innocent questioner, in our home circle, turn squarely to our task, it presents to us the rare privileges in giving instructions to those who are entrusted to us, though not the relationship of school days. In this school the teacher is the mother, whose resources in this phase of her sphere will be fully taxed as day by day, by precept and by example, the work goes on Teaching and example each depend upon the other to give it weight. Our most lasting and telling impressions are often made unconsciously. The teaching of truth in the home is not the least of a mother's privilege or a mother's duty. Let us apply ourselves to our task, remembering that it is no menial calling, but that our advance as conquerors, and the most true sense. "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world."

The W.C.T.U. are doing valuable service for the children, for which P. W. Gaetz deserves great credit.

2nd WOLF CUBS
No. 2 Pack Wolf Cubs are now going strong, meeting each Wednesday at 215, in the Alexandra Hall. The Cub Master, for a couple of weeks, the work was carried on by H. E. Callender and G. C. Crosby. The Pack have selected Donald Dale as Scribe, to record the activities of the Pack. Instruction in signalling is now being given, also a new Cub language which the Cub Master has devised.

A week end hike or camp is proposed. Some of the Cub Scouts have ordered uniforms, but for those who cannot afford it, or do not wish to purchase a uniform, it will be sufficient to get a cap, and a neckerchief of the Pack color, which is dark green.

1st WOLF CUB PACK
The 1st Wolf Cub Pack met for their usual meeting on Thursday evening, April 27th, at 8 o'clock. Present. The members of the Pack Committee were all present, and the Rev. C. McDonald gave a very interesting talk on the Pack Laws, the first of which is "The Cub gives in to the Old Wolf" and the 2nd, "The Cub does not give in to himself." Following the talk each Six went to its own corner of the hall, and the Sister gave instruction to her Six on the work required for passing the tenderpaw tests. The meeting closed with two games, in which No. 1 Six was still able to hold its own. New uniforms have been ordered, and an order for more will be sent at the end of this week, so that the uniforms may be here in time for the 24th of May. The Pack has been invited to attend the Matinee at the Rex Theatre on Saturday next. Now that the evenings are getting longer, we hope to get outside, where we shall have more room for games. There are still two vacancies in the Pack. Any boy wishing to join should see L. Brewster, Sixer of No. 4 Six.

Every Woman who cooks Should know about

RED STAR

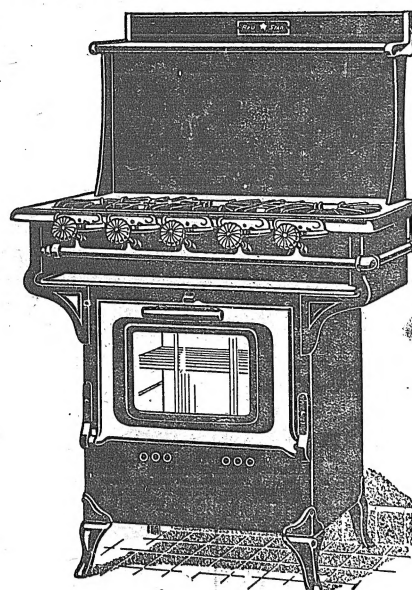

Detroit Vapor Oil Stove

No Wicks or Wick Substitutes

No other stove uses or can use a wickless burner of this type. It is patented for the Red Star exclusively. The fuel flows directly into the burner—Here the fuel is immediately mixed with the proper amount of air. As the gas and air mix in the burner, and come to the top of the burner, turning into a very hot flame.

The burners light on a scientific principle—instantly—like gas. This principle makes wicks or wick substitutes entirely unnecessary. There is nothing to learn—simply strike a match, light the burners and put the kettles on at once and the cooking begins.

The Red Star is an oil-burning stove which can be relied upon for all kinds of cooking. It matters not whether you are toasting bread, roasting fowl or baking pastry, this wonderful stove will do the job to a turn and do it with far less attention than a coal or wood stove, for the burners may be set to maintain an even, low heat or regulated to produce a uniformly intense heat.

The Red Star is smokeless and odorless. It is wickless, ashless and dirtless, because it uses kerosene or gasoline, operates 19 hours on a gallon of fuel.

RED STAR

2-Burner Stove with white enamel back and high shelf, white enamel drip pan and sanitary base.

3-Burner Stove—Same style as 2-burner.

3-Burner Oven Range (style as cut shown). Oven equipped with two burners, three-burner cooking top, white enamel drip pan, sanitary base, high shelf.

AMBROSE SMALL MYSTERY AGAIN

One of the Most Puzzling Cases Ever Reported in Canada

Toronto, April 26.—The worldwide search for Ambrose Joseph Small, millionaire Toronto chain-theatre owner, again has come to the front. New developments indicate that another search for the missing magnate may be undertaken—a search even more comprehensive and spectacular than the one that followed Small's mysterious disappearance.

Small dropped out of the world December 2, 1919. Toronto police immediately started a search.

They sent circulars offering vast rewards to police in every civilized nation, they sent officers on trips through the whole North American continent, they even conducted professional physicals—all in vain.

Then came a lull. It seemed that the case of Ambrose Small was to be added to the list of unsolved police mysteries.

NEW ELEMENT IN CASE
But now a new element has been injected into the case.

Gertrude and Florence, the two sisters of the missing millionaire, declare the police have not prosecuted the search with enough vigor and thoroughness.

And Gideon Grant, attorney for the two sisters, says he will ask the attorney-general to open a new probe—a probe he is satisfied will reveal the fate of the missing magnate.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Theresa Small, the wife—or perhaps the widow—of the missing man, has spent vast sums to aid the police.

Thus the whole case has been pushed to the fore. Police are reviewing the disappearance itself and the search that followed.

HOW HE DISAPPEARED
Here is the story:

Small's fortune at the time of his disappearance seems to have been $3,500,000. He controlled 36 theatres in Canada.

On the afternoon of December 2, 1919, he put through a big theatrical deal involving $1,000,000. Then he left for home, where he had told Mrs. Small he would take dinner with her at 6:30.

He stopped to buy a paper from his favorite newsboy.

He entered a barber shop to be shaved by a barber whose services he always had preferred. Both barber and newsboy have signed affidavits telling of their last talk with Small.

After he left the barber, Small vanished. He's not since been heard of.

WHAT EVIDENCE SHOWS
Police do not know. But here are the scattered threads of evidence they have collected:

Shortly after Small's disappearance John Doughty, his secretary, also disappeared. He was arrested in Oregon. He is now serving time for the theft of $105,000 in bonds, Small's property, but he could not be directly connected with Small's disappearance.

Other mysterious clues are:

The letters of "B. B. Friend." These were sent to Colonel Richard J. Haile, an attorney. The writer professed he could tell Small's whereabouts. But the letters led to nothing.

The story of Alfred Elson, caretaker of Rosary hall hotel. Elson says he saw a motor car, containing a couple which might have contained body, drive up a road near Rosary hall on the day of Small's disappearance. He thinks the car passengers may have disposed of Small's body then.

SAYS HE RETURNED
The testimony of Catherine M. Dunn, formerly a maid in the Small household. She maintains Small returned to his home in the interval between his visit to the barber and his disappearance.

The alleged vision of Louis Benjamin, Toronto medium, who said Small appeared to him and told him he was at Honey Harbor in Long Island Sound. It was later learned that Honey Harbor is on Georgian Bay, Ontario.

And the village of Verónica, Ontario, its head into the case to insist that a man taken into custody as Small a year ago and later released, was Small, despite statements of relatives that the man was a stranger.

That's the "confusing tangle of evidence." And a tangle it will remain—unless, as Attorney Grant believes, the attorney-general can uncover some fresh clues.

The funeral of Marjorie L. C. Pickthall, the brilliant Canadian poetess, who died at Vancouver on Wednesday, will be held in Toronto, according to an announcement made by Arthur C. Pickthall, her father.

The house at Washington adopted the naval appropriation bill amendment providing an enlisted personnel of $6,000 net. The bill, as amended, carries $251,000,000 more than its original total.

(By Geo. M. Johnson.)

I had not seen Dan Townsend for a number of years until I met him one evening in New York. He had been there for some time, and he was a little older than I, and his brother Bill was a little younger. As boys we had been together, and he had been a trapper on the mountains that surrounded the village where we lived, and had been a trapper on the mountains that surrounded the village where we lived, and had been a trapper on the mountains that surrounded the village where we lived.

Even in our boyhood days the Townsend family had gained a reputation for recklessness as regards personal danger. No one in the village was more so.

there over the cliff" asked the ranchman. "They'll be doing a plenty, let me tell you."

The truth is I wasn't enthusiastic about the idea myself, but Bill waived all objections aside. "Those eagles won't do anything we can't do better than do," he said, "and I'll be right with you."

"Let's go!" His idea was to sink an iron bolt into the rock and fasten the rope to it. We learned from the ranchman that there already was a bolt fixed in the granite at the summit, though he did not know who had put it there or why. Some other fool member of the suicide club, maybe, he remarked grimly. But you'd better get a new peg; that one's probably pretty well rusted by now.

The next morning, carrying with me, a camera, rope, stone drill, steel pegs, and a shotgun that I had inherited from my father, I set out on a trip to the old eagle's nest. From the constant scolding and cries of the young birds that floated up to us, we knew that the nest was directly below the peak we were to climb.

The peak was well named; the summit was much like a smooth bald head and sloped steeply down to the edge of the overhanging cliff that formed the forehead. We examined the old iron peg. From the constant scolding and cries of the young birds that floated up to us, we knew that the nest was directly below the peak we were to climb.

"I slowly eased him over the edge of the rock," he carried the camera securely held by a strap that passed over his shoulder, and his hands were free to use it. Beneath him was a sheer drop of a thousand feet to the valley below.

"I let the rope slip slowly round the bolt and finally as Bill yelled 'Whoa!' he held it tight. I heard the faint whir of the machine as he started to turn the crank. Now and then the angry screams of the outraged eagles mingled with the sound; the birds paid no heed to me, but gave all their attention to Bill.

"Presently the whirring of the camera ceased, and the birds seemed to rebuke their shrill outcry. Then I heard Bill shout, 'Dan! Quick, the sun!'"

"The rope was merely snubbed round the steel peg; so, hastily tying it with a half hitch, I grabbed the gun and scrambled down the slope to the edge of the cliff as fast as I dared. When I peered over, the sight that I saw startled me. The larger of the adult eagles was perched on Bill's head, buffeting him viciously with its powerful wings and striking with its savage beak. I did not dare shoot, so I let out a wild yell. After a swift upward glance, the eagle flew off and gave me the chance I wanted. The mountain peak roared with the report of the gun, and Bill, assailed by the impact of the shot, fell back.

"I happened to look at the rope, which I supposed was firmly fastened to the peg perhaps thirty feet behind me. I was slowly slipping over the cliff; the hastily tied knot was yielding under the strain of Bill's weight. I made a dash back up the smooth rock to the steel bolt. But just as I reached it a tremendous gust from the south drove me just above the face of the cliff and directly in my path of descent. As I was shooting past it, I grabbed it with my left hand and by a miracle managed to keep my grip on the rope, though you can imagine what it did to my hand; at least six feet of rope was jerked through my fingers before I could stop it.

"Now you have situation number two. Bill and I were safe for the moment; but I was stretched tight on my back; my left hand was gripping the bolt; my right was clutching the rope to which Bill was hanging. I could save myself by letting go of the rope, but that would mean my death. I could hold on until I was exhausted. Then the two of us would go together."

"Bill, I called, 'how are you, old man?'"

"All right, except that my head is cut up a little. What's the good word, 'Keep your body still and don't start up the rope till I tell you.' I knew that my damaged palm and fingers could never hold the rope during the jerking of a hand-over-hand climb."

"I was gripping the rope some six or eight feet from the end. Our only hope of escape lay in somehow getting the loose part round the peg. I managed to work one foot over the rope and then kicked it up over my head. It slipped back on the ledge, but missed dropping behind the peg by at least a foot. However, the failure was encouraging, for it showed me that I might be successful. Finally, after a good many attempts, I did get the loop over the bolt; but now it was necessary to let go of the peg and grab the short end of the rope before it fell clear as Bill and I again started downward."

"To tell the truth I was afraid to let go of the peg, but I had almost reached the end of my endurance. I knew that the longer I waited the poorer were my chances of success. I took a deep breath and in one motion let go and grabbed desperately behind me at the spot where I knew I saw that rusty old peg just above the face of the cliff and directly in my path of descent. As I was shooting past it, I grabbed it with my left hand and by a miracle managed to keep my grip on the rope, though you can imagine what it did to my hand; at least six feet of rope was jerked through my fingers before I could stop it.

However, the failure was encouraging, for it showed me that I might be successful. Finally, after a good many attempts, I did get the loop over the bolt; but now it was necessary to let go of the peg and grab the short end of the rope before it fell clear as Bill and I again started downward."

"To tell the truth I was afraid to let go of the peg, but I had almost reached the end of my endurance. I knew that the longer I waited the poorer were my chances of success. I took a deep breath and in one motion let go and grabbed desperately behind me at the spot where I knew I saw that rusty old peg just above the face of the cliff and directly in my path of descent. As I was shooting past it, I grabbed it with my left hand and by a miracle managed to keep my grip on the rope, though you can imagine what it did to my hand; at least six feet of rope was jerked through my fingers before I could stop it.

"Now you have situation number two. Bill and I were safe for the moment; but I was stretched tight on my back; my left hand was gripping the bolt; my right was clutching the rope to which Bill was hanging. I could save myself by letting go of the rope, but that would mean my death. I could hold on until I was exhausted. Then the two of us would go together."

"Bill, I called, 'how are you, old man?'"

"All right, except that my head is cut up a little. What's the good word, 'Keep your body still and don't start up the rope till I tell you.' I knew that my damaged palm and fingers could never hold the rope during the jerking of a hand-over-hand climb."

"I was gripping the rope some six or eight feet from the end. Our only hope of escape lay in somehow getting the loose part round the peg. I managed to work one foot over the rope and then kicked it up over my head. It slipped back on the ledge, but missed dropping behind the peg by at least a foot. However, the failure was encouraging, for it showed me that I might be successful. Finally, after a good many attempts, I did get the loop over the bolt; but now it was necessary to let go of the peg and grab the short end of the rope before it fell clear as Bill and I again started downward."

the other eagle had darted upon me like a thunderbolt.

"You remember that time we were hunting grouse on Bear Mountain," Townsend asked abruptly, "and you slipped off that big rock into a dense clump of grapevines? A partridge you fired without aiming and brought down the bird. Well, I did the same thing with the eagle as it dashed by after it had bowled me over. It was, of course, just as your shot was, but I got that bird with my left barrel; and then I started to slide."

"I clutched frantically at the rope and succeeded in catching it with my right hand; but then there was much more strain on the rapidly slipping knot; and before I was fully aware of what was happening the rope pulled clear of the peg, and I started down the slope as if it were greased."

"Without doubt that was the most thrilling situation I was ever in. Another second and I seemed likely to go shooting off the front of the cliff and follow Bill in a dizzy plunge to the jagged rocks of the talus slope a thousand feet below. It is a fact that my brain did a good day's work during the next second. A multitude of thoughts flashed through it; then I seemed to be viewing the whole affair from a distance. I could see Bill dangling helplessly at the end of the rope and dragging me to a highly unpleasant death far below. I could see the eagles' nest with the young birds in it, stretching their heads up in mingled fear and excitement. I could even see the shotgun, which I had dropped as soon as I had killed the second eagle, sliding swiftly down the face of the cliff."

Townsend paused and grinned cheerfully at me. "There's the thrilling situation," he said. "How do you like it?"

"It's thrilling enough," I agreed. "But kindly don't prolong the agony. If you weren't here in front of me, alive and whole, I'd declare up and down that you and Bill pitched a thousand feet to the jagged rocks."

"It was that panoramic view of mine which was our salvation," Dan went on. "Among the other objects I saw was that rusty old peg just above the face of the cliff and directly in my path of descent. As I was shooting past it, I grabbed it with my left hand and by a miracle managed to keep my grip on the rope, though you can imagine what it did to my hand; at least six feet of rope was jerked through my fingers before I could stop it.

Jackie Coogan Shows New Genius in "My Boy," His Latest

To be a star at six years of age is a sign of genius—nothing less. And that is what Jackie Coogan is a genius. This little chap is coming to the Rex Theatre, where his latest production, "My Boy," an Associated First National attraction, will be shown on Monday, May 8th.

Jackie proves that a person doesn't have to be an adult to be a motion picture star. It is doubtful if there is any other star in the profession who has the following possessed by Jackie Coogan, for his last two pictures, "The Kid," in which he played second part to Charles Chaplin, and "Peck's Bad Boy," in which he played the undisputed lead, have been the best money-making films of the past year.

"My Boy" is excellent entertainment; not only because the "kid" is in it, but because he has a story, written especially for him, which fits him like the proverbial glove, and which gives him full opportunity to display his varied talents. The story is that of a little immigrant orphan, who lands in New York and escapes deportation by the immigration authorities through a ruse. He wins the hearts of all those with whom he comes into contact, and eventually finds a home, joy and peace.

SALVATION ARMY SELF-DENIAL WEEK

During the week May 8th to 14th we shall be making our annual Self-Denial appeal. The Salvation Army needs the financial support of the public to make it possible to carry on, and to make advancements in the various branches of the work. The need is still great for helping to lift the fallen, heal the sick, shelter the homeless, befriended the friendless, and bring light and salvation to all mankind. To this end we have shelters, industrial homes, receiving homes, rescue homes, maternity hospitals, children homes, etc.

The missionary work also calls loudly for help. There are 2500 officers and teachers in non-Christian lands and in addition to direct evangelistic efforts the work embraces other activities such as colleges for lepers in Java, colonies for criminal tribes in India, beggars colonies where beggars are cleared from the streets and taught to work for their living, insular homes, children's homes, day schools, industrial homes for stranded Europeans in India, famine relief operations, hospitals and other social efforts.

The objective for Canada West in this effort is $75,000, of which $350 has been allotted to Red Deer to raise.

We are depending on your generosity and sympathy with our work and feel sure that when you are called upon you will do your very best, and in giving you yourself will be blessed.

WASKASOO NEWS

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hicks, "Poplar Grove Farm," was the scene of a very pleasant gathering last Thursday afternoon, when the Ladies' Guild of Waskasoo gave a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Blanche Ellenwood, who is to be married very shortly to Mr. Charles Roland. The young couple are very popular, and are widely known in the district. Miss Ellenwood is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hicks, and is a daughter of the late Mr. Roland was a veteran in the late war.

The hostess was assisted by her daughter, Miss Myrtle Hicks, while Mrs. McEachern presided over the tea table, which was covered with a beautiful malden-hair fern. Mrs. Parks poured the tea, and was assisted by Miss Hicks, Miss G. Parks and Miss Dykes, Mrs. Oplie cutting the loaves.

During the afternoon the guest of honor was presented with a number of dainty gifts, which were carried by two little girls, Martha Fleming and Leona Parks, on a cleverly arranged tray. Mrs. Oplie immediately returned all thanks to the bride-elect, upon which she responded in a few suitable words.

Selections were played by Mrs. Oplie, and solos were rendered by Miss Hicks and Miss McEachern during the afternoon.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to take this opportunity of thanking my neighbors and friends who have been so kind to myself and family during our recent illness. I want particularly to thank Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Martin who, at great inconvenience to themselves, have been untiring in their efforts to help us in our time of need, and doubtless were the means of saving some of our lives.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear son, Pte. George W. Hill, who was killed in action, April 28th, 1917.

Silently the shadows of evening gather round my lonely door;
Silently they bring before me
Faces I shall see no more.

Oh not lost, but gone before us!
Let them never be forgot;
Sweet their memory to the lonely;
In our hearts they perish not.

How such holy memories cluster,
Like the stars when storms are past;
Pointing up to that far heaven,
Where we hope to meet at last.
